EXHIBITION DESCRIPTION (Text taken from press release)

Independent curator and critic, Iliana Antonova, and gallery director, Michèle Thériault, selected the eight artists for the tenth edition of IGNITION.

David Arseneau's painting Items and Weapons from Friday the 13th Part 1 to Part 12 assembles on one visual plane the historical shift in objects specific to the films bearing the same title. The painting becomes a chronology of changing technologies acting as an archive of popular culture iconography. Celia Perrin Sidarous work indexes a personalized collection of colloquial material. Through scenographic installations, her work methodologically occupies space beyond the image border.

As nearly invisible architectural interventions, Candice Davies places sculptural replicas of utilitarian elements, electrical outlet faceplates, in the gallery. In contrast, Jennifer Lupien's Plinthe draws attention to spatial banality by disruption. Lupien modifies the built environment by embellishing existing ornamentation: aiming to enlighten viewer's perceptions.

Colleen Heslin's monochromatic canvases are composed of discarded domestic fibers altered through experimentation with dying and craft techniques. The resulting compositions subtly erase the garment fabric's history. In-Betweeness, a satirical project by Timothée Messeiller, interrogates the function of everyday objects through minimal absurd alterations. Messeiller collects rejected materials and transforms their purpose, rendering obsolete their intended functionality. Les Ramsay collages appropriated ready-made materials together producing new objects. Through aesthetic similarities, Ramsay's sculptural extensions elicit unexpected narratives in relation to his wall-mounted tableaux.

Inspired by Laszlo Moholy-Nagy, Dana Samuel's project is an interpretation of the constructivist artist's Telephone Paintings (1923). In her iteration of the work, five sound compositions and vinyl graphics mediate Moholy-Nagy's process of communicating parameters for graphic production without providing the visuals.

The Leonard & Bina Ellen Art Gallery is supported by the Canada Council for the Arts.
